You will automatically begin receiving any post that is made within the CBI Yahooogroup.

When signing up, you will have various options as to how you wish to view this information. Each time a person posts a message it can be automatically sent to your email account. Or you may choose to sign up for a Daily Digest where the posts from the entire day will be sent in one nice, concise email at the end of the day. Lastly, you may also sign up to simply view the site on your own time by logging onto the Yahooogroup website when you have the time, meaning that no emails will be sent to your account, however you must first become a member and registered user.

Some coordinators may find that their school may filter these emails due to this being a “chat” site. You may either send a request to your technology supervisor asking that you be able to receive these emails due to professional development or sign up to receive these emails at your home email address.

All messages, links, power points, lesson plans, etc have been archived since the beginning of this group in 2003. THERE IS ALREADY A WEALTH OF CBI INFORMATION WAITING FOR YOU ON THIS SITE!

Get signed up today and be rejuvenated by other CBI Coordinators' thoughts and ideas!
